Hello Kindergarten Friends!

Suzy here, I hope you are all having a fun week staying at home with your families! I have had a really fun week, I rode my new bike and I played soccer in the backyard with my sister!

Yesterday my mom let me fingerprint! It was so much fun until my sister wanted to fingerprint, too. I needed all the colors I was using to make beautiful flowers in my picture. I saw that she started to look sad and Mom looked angry. Do you know what I did? I solved that problem on my own because I remembered that peacemakers always share. I decided to share my paints with her so she could fingerprint, too. It was more fun when we were able to fingerprint together.

I felt proud because I solved that problem all on my own by sharing. What are some things you like to share?

Later that day I watched a YouTube video about Elmo sharing cookies! You should watch it too. Elmo was being a peacemaker!

I can't wait to catch up next week!
