Hello Kindergarten Friends!

Tuggles here! How were you a peacemaker this week? Did you share? Or take turns? Suzy told me she has been working on sharing with her sister and she is feeling so proud!

I have been sharing and taking turns with my brother. Sometimes it is hard when we are together at home all the time now. But mom says this will pass. Sometimes I forget that listening is part of being a peacemaker. Last night I was playing legos, and I was building the biggest tower ever! Mom told me it was time to put my toys away and brush my teeth. I wasn't ready to stop playing so I just ignored her. She asked me again. This time I said OK but I still didn't do it. Then mom told me that if I don't put them away I can't play with them tomorrow. She reminded me peacemakers listen and follow directions! I knew she was right so I put my toys away and brushed my teeth. I felt happy that I was able to be a peacemaker and be a good listener!

Because I was listening, mom let me dance to a song on YouTube, but I had to listen to know what to do! You should try it too!

Can't wait to talk to you again!
